Mrs. Margaret Merrill, one of the young girls who is on the Junior Prom committee for this evening's affair.

All matter to be included in Sunday society must be in this office not later than twelve o'clock noon Saturday.

The annual breakfast of the Ladies Literary club, celebrating the thirty-sixth birthday of the club, will be held today in the grill room of the Hotel Utah. The hour set for the company, Mrs. E. B. Bogue, the president of the club, who is expected to be absent from the city at the time of the affair, is back and will introduce the toastmistress, Mrs. C. E. Richards. Responses will be made by Mrs. J. F. Cowan, Mrs. E. B. Bogue, Mrs. Thomas Marlowe, Mrs. W. C. Jennings, Mrs. A. H. Parsons and Mrs. E. B. Palmer.

An informal dance given last evening at the Salt Lake Transportation club in the ballroom of the Hotel Utah was a delightful affair and was attended by a representative number of the members of the club and their guests. Among the number of well-known society people in connection with all the dancing, running into the city, and that a number of well-known society people were present. A splendid musical programme of songs was rendered during the evening, and from 9 till 12 o'clock dancing continued. A supper was served in the grill room all evening and punch was placed on the mezzanine floor for the refreshment of the dancers. The entertainment committee consisted of H. C. O. S. L. A. E. McNeill, C. E. Leis, A. E. McNeill and Mrs. J. F. Cowan, a subcommittee, was assisted by W. C. Jennings, W. E. Blodgett, J. H. Davis, A. E. Hobbs, P. H. Patterson, A. E. Pond and A. F. Brewer.

Mr. Willard Hamer entertained a party yesterday at a luncheon at the Hotel Utah with a box party at the Orpheum matinee later. The round table, which was laid in the main dining room, was all in violet, a centerpiece of them filling the center of the board and bouquets of the flowers being placed at each place. Name cards done in the same flowers were used also and the whole effect was in the violet color. The guests were Mrs. E. F. Foot, Mrs. J. T. Richards, Mrs. Edward McGurkin, Mrs. E. B. Bogue, Mrs. Walter S. Eldredge, Mrs. A. A. Kerr and Miss Rose Stephens.

The main affair of this evening for the young people in school and college circles is the Junior prom, the annual distinction by social event of the college year. The prom will be held at the Hotel Utah and will be attended by many of the older friends outside of college circles as well as by the young people themselves. The Misses Margaret Merrill, Mary Horne and Claire Pendleton are the girls on the prom committee and the young men are Raymond Sumner, Rex Sutherland and Robert Ferris.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Bogue and Miss Bogue entertained more than a score of their friends last evening at a bridge party at their home in the Prescott apartments. The rooms were adorned with valentines and red hearts and red carnations. Six tables of bridge were played and later a delicious supper was served. Miss Dorothy Ingram assisting the hostesses in serving.

The following from the current issue of the Army and Navy Journal will be of interest to the Salt Lake friends of Mrs. Richard (Gladys McConaghy): "The Tenth cavalry band played a complimentary concert at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., January 31, for Lieutenant and Mrs. Dun can G. Richard. It was the 'official serenade' by the regimental band to the bride and groom."

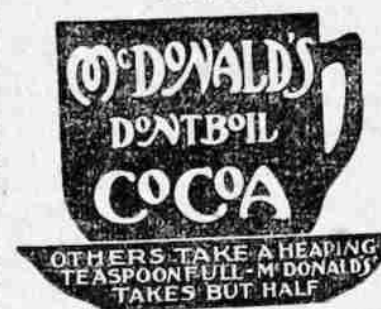

Mrs. T. E. Beatty, who has been with her daughter, Miss Virginia Beatty, in Boston, since the illness of the latter early in the winter, has left Boston on her homeward trip. She will go south, however, before returning, to visit her sister for a time, and will not reach here till the latter part of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nibley and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dorn, who made the trip to Honolulu early in the year, are home again, having reached here on Tuesday and Wednesday, respectively. Mrs. Nibley has gone to Provo to see her small son and daughter, who have been with

GEORGE WASHINGTON BY WOODROW WILSON THE STORY OF THE FIRST PRESIDENT BY THE PRESIDENT-ELECT.

The Congress Responsible for the Stress at Valley Forge—French Money Finds Its Way Into the Confederate Treasury—Lafayette and Von Steuben Join the Patriot Army—France Forms an Open Alliance With the Colonists—Parliament Decides, Too Late, to Yield the Right to Tax the Americans.

WASHINGTON and his army were starving the while at Valley Forge, in desperate straits to get anything to eat or anything to cover them in that bitter season—not because there were no supplies, but because Congress had disbanded the commissary department, and the supplies seldom reached the camp.

The country had not been too heavily stricken by the war. Abundant crops were everywhere sown and peacefully reaped, and there were men enough to do the work of seed-time and harvest.

THE ARMY CHIEF SUFFERERS.
It was only the army that was suffering for lack of food and lack of men. The naked feet were the confederacy was falling apart for lack of a government. Local selfishness had overmastered national feeling, and only a few men like Washington held the breaking structure together.

Washington's steadfastness was never shaken, and Mrs. Washington, ardent lady that she was, joined him even at Valley Forge. His intrigue against him he watched in stern silence till it was ripe and evident, then he crushed it with sudden exposure, and turned away in contempt, hardly so much as warping it in his letters to his friends. "Their own artless zeal to advance their views has destroyed them," he said.

THE IDOL OF HIS MEN.

His soldiers he succored and supplied as he could, himself sharing their privations, and earning their love as he served them. "Naked and starving as they are," he wrote, "we cannot sufficiently admire the incomparable patience and fidelity of the soldiers."
An eye-out of that grievous winter some profit was wrung. Handsome sums of French money had begun to flow to come slowly into the confederate's treasury—for France, the nation, was filled with sympathy for America, and glad to lend secret aid against an old foe. Presently, she promised, she would recognize the independence of the United States, and herself grapple once more with England.

FOREIGN OFFICERS VOLUNTEER.
Meanwhile French, German and Polish officers hurried over sea to serve as volunteers with the raw armies of the confederacy—adventurers, some of them, others sober veterans, gentlemen of fortune, men of generous and noble quality—among them the boyish Lafayette and the distinguished Steuben.
Baron von Steuben had won himself a place on the great Frederick's staff in the severe wars of and was of that studious race of soldiers the world was presently to learn to fear.

STUBEN AT VALLEY FORGE.
He joined Washington at Valley Forge, and turned the desolate camp into a training school of arms, teaching what these troops had never known before, promptness and precision in the manual of arms, in massed and ordered movement, in the use of the bayonet, the

FAVORS PHYSICAL VALUATION MEASURE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—Prof. J. R. Commons of the University of Wisconsin today appeared before the senate interstate commerce committee in favor of the Adamson-La Follette bill for valuation of railroads. He gave an exhaustive analysis of the decision of the supreme court on the subject of railroad valuation. Professor Commons declared that the theory of valuation so far adopted by the supreme court required the accurate determination of the physical value of the railroad property, less depreciation, the historical cost of the property and the original cost to date, as provided for in the bill.

"Can't We be a Little More Economical, Dear?"

The man with his nose to the grindstone trying to "make both ends meet" is asking that question of his helpmate more and more as the price of living soars.

Cottolene

will help you immensely by cutting down your butter bills. Use butter on your table, but not in your kitchen. With butter at present prices, you simply could not afford to use it in cooking, even if it would produce better results. But when Cottolene will shorten and fry as good as or even better than butter—and the price is about one-third—why not try it, and practice economy without feeling that you are "skimping" yourself or your table?

Remember also that two-thirds of a pound of Cottolene will go as far as a full pound of either butter or lard. Cottolene is Nature's Shortening—a vegetable product—healthful, digestible, and in every way satisfactory. Try this recipe:

PLAIN LAYER CAKE
Cream 1/2 cup Cottolene with 1 cup sugar, mix in alternately 1/2 cup milk and 2 cups pastry flour, in which 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt have been thoroughly sifted. Beat well, flavor, and add three stiffly beaten eggs. Bake in two layers.

This batter is a good foundation recipe and may be used with spices, chocolate, fruit or nuts, with any desired filling.
